Having launched a three-time Inc. 500 Fastest Growing Company to endowing Emory University's top-10 ranking Executive MBA program, W. Cliff Oxford is bridging the gap between Harvard and hard knocks. Currently presiding over the fastest-growing entrepreneurial education company, Entrepreneur Advisors, Inc, Oxford brings talent and experience to entrepreneurial industry. Today, his experience, expertise, and knowledge are highly sought after making him the leader in entrepreneur education.

Oxford launched STI Knowledge, an early pioneer specializing in CRM technology and services, and created a cultural phenomenon by placing on Inc. 500's Fastest Growing Companies three years in a row. STI went on to serve 86 percent of the Fortune 1000 with a global presence in Hong Kong, United Kingdom, South Africa, and more. He has endowed Emory University's top 10 ranking Executive MBA program, formally known as the W. Cliff Oxford Executive MBA. In 2009, Oxford underwrote and created a reality television series for Atlanta's CBS called "The Next Tycoon".

Under Oxford's leadership, Entrepreneur Advisors' monthly educational platforms, a joint venture with the Atlanta Business Chronicle, bring in over 250 fast-growth companies to learn and engage in strategies to make businesses grow.

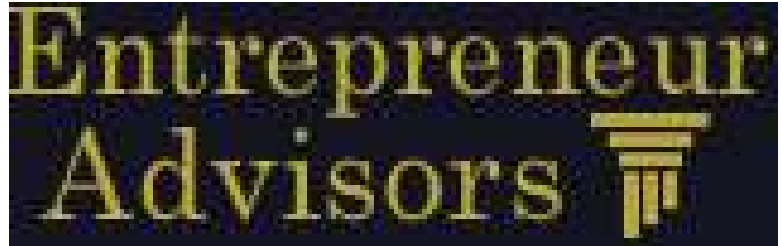

Oxford's commitment to fostering the entrepreneurial mission has made him the first to speak out on the country's immigration policies by recognizing that America's immigration experience breeds a culture of creativity that keeps the country an economic superpower. "Entrepreneurship keeps America ahead and that is why our immigrant experience is very important," said Oxford in a recent article in The Atlanta Journal- Constitution.

A sought-after speaker at organizations, universities, and corporations (i.e. the 2010 Indus Entrepreneurs (TiE) Entrepreneurial Summit, Clayton State University's School of Business Dean's Distinguished Executive Speaker Series, Rose Pharmaceuticals), Oxford's accomplishments have been featured in the Atlanta Journal-Constitution, Emory's Goizueta School of Business Magazine, The Augusta Chronicle, Atlanta Business Radio, and the Atlanta Business Chronicle.

Coming up, Oxford will be engaging over 200 fast-growth companies at the Four Seasons Atlanta on what it takes to grow and compete in today's market.

"Rarely do you find an organization that truly exceeds your expectation, yet the Entrepreneur Economics class has done just that. Not only does it provide fascinating case studies that can be translated into everyday business situations, but the diversity of the students provides invaluable perspective and varying points of view. Our experience with Cliff has been in a word, "priceless"..."

"We have seen an immediate ROI and branding benefits from our sponsorship investment in the Entrepreneur Education Symposiums. We find the typical company profile consistent with our target market which is growing, expanding and financing. We also recommended it to our Charlotte offices because the symposiums are high energy with new and interesting panelist every month."

Kip Plowman
Managing Partner Atlanta
Cherry, Bekaert & Holland, L.L.P.

"Cliff, I wanted to take the time to thank you and Dave for a very educational and inspiring weekend. I can already see where a lot of your ideas and thoughts can be put into practice both personally and professionally. You really have a great team in place and I can see big and exciting things ahead for both of you."

Mark Reinke, M.D.

"As I have been an educator and a participant in several of Cliff's classes, I can tell you it is the ultimate entrepreneurial experience to see how you start, build and scale a growing enterprise. And then to add The Next Tycoon show with the 3-day MBA is remarkably clever and a huge benefit for the students and entrepreneurs."
